J. ROBERT SCOTT®

The hand-made nature of custom furnishings by J. Robert Scott result in one-of-a-kind veneer finishes. We offer exotic veneers sourced from all over the world. Among the various finish techniques we provide is bleached. Our craftsmen use the warm, bright Southern California sun to do the job for us.

Every veneer that is selected for use in our furniture is carefully chosen for pattern, orientation, and quality. As a natural component, every strip exhibits its own characteristics, grain, and nuance. Some veneers are dramatic and some are subdued, based on the size of the pores and how they are arranged. The reaction to bleaching is as individual as the tree it came from, and we believe that this is the true beauty of the wood.

When considering a bleached macassar veneer for a project, it is important to understand that the wood veneer will dictate the results. Those results may be somewhat different than the sample. If your design goal is to create a bespoke, one-of-a-kind piece, then you will embrace the variations in shade and structure of the veneer. No two pieces will be identical...that is our brand philosophy of "Furniture as an Art Form".
